There is one story so niterly rediculous that it seems incredible that it should ever have been printed, which in one ready that the sound of the seems of the country in rules. One for it and you will sooner or later see it crop up again.

This tale is always based upon the unpopularity of the one-cent pleces in the extreme West and Southwest. In its most common form it tells of some Eastern traveler who attempts to dispose of a hundred or so one cent pleces in San Francisco, El Passo or some other place.

The tradesman is always represented as looking at them cariously and declining them.

The writers of these senseless tales may have been in the West or they may not It matters little—their story is pointless. They seek to brand the mythical trades man as of the same category with them.

The cent is a legal tender in amounts of twenty-five and less. If an Eastern man in San Francisco or anywhere else owes a debt of twenty-five cents, and ten-man in San Francisco or anywhere else owes a debt of twenty-five cents, and tenders twenty-five one-cent pieces in settlement, the Cours will sustain him.

Of course, the coins are not popular in the extreme West and South, but no one need carry a hundred of them in a cigar box or anywhere else as useless metal. If you are in a city that has not a United States Sub-Treasury, go to the Postoffice, dump in twenty-five cents and see if you will have any difficulty in obtaining atamps or postal cards of like amount. If one is refueed, a letter of complaint to the postal authorities will soon work the removal of an empione who would discredit United States money.

It is well to bear this matter of the legal tender of a cent in mind. No one for spite can make a person take more than the control of the country o

State Inspector and Examiner Gardner has made a report to Governor Brown on the fraudulent assessment and sale of land in Magoffin country, whereby the state has been swindled out of a large sum of money. By the collusion of several country officers fictitious lists of property were prepared, the property assessed at an exorbitant vaiue, sold for taxes, purchased for the state and recorded, for all of which fees were charged. Inspector Gardner recommends that the Magoffin Grand Jury and the Attorney General take the matter up.
